

MONDAY VETS: A good field of 49 players contested the pairs best ball competition this week. It was great to see some old faces return to Vets golf again. Earl White continued on his run of winning everything he enters, and together with partner Tom Wallace topped the competition with 46 points. Second was Anke Hermannsdorfer/Mark Mora with 44, while they were followed by Francis Gascoigne/Gary Choat (43), Bev Ireland/Allen Smith (42), and Edna Connolly/Ross Fitness (41).

NINE HOLE SECTION: After two weeks of no golf due to the weather a good field played a stableford hagggle in sunny conditions (and no wind!) on Tuesday morning. Top player was Lynda Thomson with 20 points, with Val McLoughlin next on 18. Then came, John Vautier and Alison Turney, both with 17, followed by John Cotterill on 16 points. It was great to see our new players taking part and improving their skills.

WEDNESDAY LADIES: The ladies also enjoyed a sunny day after their weather enforced two week lay off, with a good field of 30 players contesting the next round of the LGU and a nett hagggle. Just back from an overseas trip showed that the break did wonders for Adrienne Lynch who scored a brilliant 64 nett. She was followed by Nita Dalley with a very good 67, then Rosalind Giffney and Jenny Tubman both 72. The "Dreamers Player of the Week" for the previous week was Michelle Libby with 79 nett, but thus week's winner is of course Adrienne Lynch with her 64 nett.

THURSDAY MEN: A fine day, but with a chilling breeze greeted a large field for the morning hagggle. In division 1, Vince Jones with 36 points won on a countback from Alan Kurtovich, with Ted Murray just behind with 35, and Tim Parish had 33. In division 2, Norm Sanderson had the round of the morning with 39 points, Followed by David Lockton with 37. Next were Doug Ferguson and Jock Stronach 36. In the afternoon hagggle, the happy farmer Dwayne O'Flaherty scored a great 42 points, followed by the ever present Chris Hale with 37. They were followed by Damian Dunlop (36), Wayne Brierley (35), and Gary Choat (34).

SATURDAY LADIES: A small field on a bleak morning played a nett hagggle. First was Michelle Libby with 74, with Jackie Robson close behind with 75, with the rest of the field finishing on 84.

SATURDAY MEN: The bleak, windy morning gave way to a wet/windy afternoon, making playing conditions cold and difficult. The highlight of the day was the final of the four-ball-best-ball competition for the Ludwig Cup. The two finalist teams battled all afternoon in a closely fought match, which was finally decided on the eighteenth hole, with Nigel and Norm Sanderson finally prevailing over Terry Gerbich and Wayne Brierley. This is Nigel's second championship win this year.

In the morning hagggle, it was again a Earle White benefit, with him not only winning the hagggle with 38 points, but also the hidden hole pool, and he had the only two! Second was Mark Mora with 34, followed by Ken Mustard and John Giffney both with 32.

In the bedraggled field in the afternoon, Mark Tomsett had the top score with 39 points, followed by Malcolm Coldicutt on 37. Next were Bryce Bevin (35), and Alex Teesdale and Chris Pilmer both with 34.
